

DISPLACEMENT AND ARCHITECTURE SYMPOSIUM

On May 23-25, 2018, the “Displacement and Architecture Symposium” will be held in Coral Gables in partnership with the Forum for Architecture, Culture, and Spirituality; the School of Architecture, University of Miami; the Coral Gables Museum; the AIA Miami; and The Aga Khan Award for Architecture. The conference and exhibition aim for a broad discussion among practitioners and scholars on the tangible and intangible dimensions of displacement, addressing the physical as well as spiritual ramifications of natural disaster, forced migration, or deportation. Topics will include how architecture, cities and environments are impacted by migration, including the spatial and symbolic dimensions of home, camp, or place of worship. The symposium will focus on resilient design mitigation strategies addressing our inner sense of spiritual and cultural permanence within the temporal realities that we now occupy and will occupy in the future. For further information please see: <http://www.acsforum.org/symposium2018/index.htm>

